Certificate

It is hereby certified that Gabriel Stanciu, student at Jönköping University has, during one semester, held a position of trust as a mentor.

Mentoring is about providing support to a student with a disability, usually students with neuropsychiatric disabilities and mental illness, and together with them developing skills needed to achieve the educational goals. The mentor must also be available to motivate and strive to encourage and develop the student's independence in their studies.

The support can be about acting as an advisor, discussion partner, being helpful with planning and structuring the studies.
